Île de Beauté, Kallisté (the most beautiful), the mountain in the middle of the sea. This is how Corsica is called, already known for its beauty to the ancient Greeks.

Both radiant and wild, it offers breath-taking landscapes and an incredible natural variety, remaining one of Europe's most exclusive destinations.

Corsica encompasses all the shades of colours on a painter's palette, the blue of the sea combines with the green of the mountains.

Explore its authentic beauty with extraordinary experiences at sea, on lush hillsides, by trekking, on horseback or in a vintage car, rediscovering a feeling of peace and enjoyment, far from the noise.

The cultural soul of the island is preserved by the coastline, which includes little gems such as Napoleon's birthplace in Ajaccio or the citadels of Corte and Bonifacio, to be discovered on enchanting customised tours. You will also be amazed by the high level of shops and boutiques, both in fashion and traditional craftsmanship.
